This new package platform has been designed for high accuracy applications by putting two silicon sensors in one single housing. Thanks to this approach the sensitive points are extremely close to each other, resulting in an immediate and accurate output response based on the magnetic field that has been sensed. Redundancy is generated by evaluating both outputs which can be programmed completely independent from each other, for example inverted output, different switching thresholds, North or South sensitive,...